From the Principal's Desk Jackie Annable

Welcome back everyone to the 2019 school year and a special welcome to new families joining the Rye Primary School community.

All our students have settled well into their classes and our preppies are behaving as if they have been here forever!

Staffing: This year we welcome some new faces and see the return of some familiar ones.

We are delighted to welcome Mieja Wood, (3/4) and Nova Riordan, (Prep) to our community and welcome back Ange Johnston, (1/2), Kiah Fry (3/4) and Katie Wettenhall (art).

Specialist programs: This year we are offering art, music, science/technology, PE and a new specialist subject, Blue Earth.

Blue Earth, which is being led by Cheryl Cunningham, is a wellbeing program that aims to "change kids' lives through movement and mindfulness. It provides the building blocks to support active play in childhood, helping kids live better – physically, mentally and emotionally." – Blue Earth website.

This program contributes to our whole school focus on building a growth mindset in our students, helping them to develop resilience and strong work habits.

Communication: At Rye Primary School, we encourage families to engage with us in the education and care of the children. If you have any questions, please ask the relevant staff member, Lachie Featherston, our assistant principal or me.

I strongly encourage all families to download the free Flexibuzz app, as this is one of our main communication tools. Future newsletters will be sent this way, as are many other notifications and reminders.

Book lists: If you have not yet purchased your children's book lists, please can you give it your immediate attention. Unpurchased book packs will soon be returned to the manufacturer and we cannot guarantee that the price for later orders will remain the same.

If you are experiencing difficulty purchasing books, please speak to me directly as there are avenues of support which we can explore. Thank you to the families who offered a voluntary contribution with their book pack. We have raised $3357 to date.

I am looking forward to another great year at Rye Primary School. If you see me around the school, come up and say hello. I love a chat.
Have a great week,

Jackie Annable
Principal

SCIENCE NEWS

Welcome back everyone!

I am so excited to be working with every one of the kids at this school in the Science room in 2019!

We are really trying to be a super sustainable science team this year, reusing textas, pencils and old books from last year, designing the rooms with recycled furniture and for the first semester really looking at making a difference to our amazing world.

Our Environmental leaders have been super keen, coming up with some terrific ideas for composting so stay tuned as these kids are our future leaders and I can't wait to see what their plans are for our school!

Secondly, we are trying not to use as many plastic cups so if you have glass wide mouthed jars with screw on lids please wash them and send them my way (with the lids). Tomato paste, coconut oil and honey jars are great as are the square sided leggo jars. Any size will do. Thanks again!

Lastly... You are all more than welcome to pop into the Science room and have a look around or a chat about what we are doing in the classes!
